Dear Sirs:

In my opinion the Tunney Act covering the Microsoft Settlement is fair, equitable and in the public's interest. I think that this law should stand, all the litigators should go chase other fire engines and our country should get back to building our economy instead of tearing it down.

We should not attack corporations based on the fact that they have been successful.

If a company can't compete it can't make it up by litigation. We should let the best continue to innovate and, unshackled, push the frontiers of technology for the betterment of all people.

Thank you very much.

Sincerely yours,

Fred C. Benson
